Welcome back! We hope you all had a great 4th and long weekend. This week will be Military Week and we will be paying tribute to our troops.

Wednesday will be battleship day as well as a great art lesson in the afternoon. Thursday will be land navigation and letters to soldiers. Friday we will be going to Coco Keys water resort.

ATTENTION PARENTS!

For discipline, we will be using a color code system of Blue, Green, Yellow, Orange, and Red. Each day, campers will start on Green, but as the day continues they are subject to be moved to a different color based on their behavior. Yellow is based on minor camp violations with rules and policies. Orange will be warranted on multiple verbal warnings, repeat offenses while on Yellow, and/or inappropriate actions or behaviors. Red is the most severe color, and will be based on very inappropriate actions or behaviors, clear intent to hurt/harm, and/or, continuous behavior issues while on Orange. If your child is on Red, he/she will be subject to suspension, based on the decision of the Camp Director. Blue will be given to a camper who displays outstanding behavior throughout the week. It is imperative that parents/guardians support this system at home, in order to ensure that your child does not continue to have behavioral issues throughout camps.
